Dear Raisa,

We prepared the enclosed Executive Opportunity Brief before contacting you because a useful conversation should begin with your numbers, not our capabilities.

Your FY2024 filing identifies $82.1 million of indirect operating expense. Six categories representing $45.3 million can be examined against completed ERA work today. Another $36.1 million is visible but reported too broadly to assess responsibly without your detail. The categories a Form 990 does not show may be equally important.

We are not concluding that Goodwill Industries of South Florida is overpaying. We are showing where the evidence supports a closer look — and where it does not.

ERA works across 55 indirect-spend categories. Our specialists validate the question using contracts, invoices, service requirements and operating facts; develop practical options; support the action you approve; and measure the result. Incumbent suppliers often remain.

Would you give me 30 minutes to determine whether the questions in this Brief are worth answering?

If your current arrangements are already competitive, we will say so. If we create verified recovery, our fee comes only from the value after you receive it. Nothing changes without your approval.

Best regards,

Category depth · Evidence first · Implementation included
