

ERA's hybrid savings model helps Catholic Charities of Denver put millions toward its mission

The client

Catholic Charities – Archdiocese of Denver (“CCD”) turned to ERA to challenge and revamp its housing and ministry facilities management – centralizing processes and buying power across the agency. With ERA’s guidance, CCD is employing a novel hybrid service model estimated to yield roughly 30% per-annum savings over the next decade.

The challenge

A lack of centralized internal labor and external procurement practices kept CCD from scaling services, consolidating vendors, increasing efficiency – and saving money.

The solution

ERA created a hybrid internal facilities-management model to oversee vendors and internal labor while maintaining strict service standards.

The result

CCD is positioned to realize maximum efficiencies and 30%+ per-annum savings in its housing ministry alone – spurring it to ask ERA to expand its footprint across the organization.

Total annual savings realized

$1,116,000

IFM	$620,000
Maintenance / repairs	$116,000
Food services	$103,600
Telecomm	$93,600
Waste management	$56,700
Office & janitorial supplies	$54,000
Energy / utilities	$30,700
Information technology	$30,000
Print & promotional	$11,400

“ERA provided us a huge opportunity to further our mission by taking the resources we have been given and allowing us to redeploy savings into additional high-impact programming.”

PHIL VOTTIERO, CFO OF CCD